Ms. Brown's Newsletter

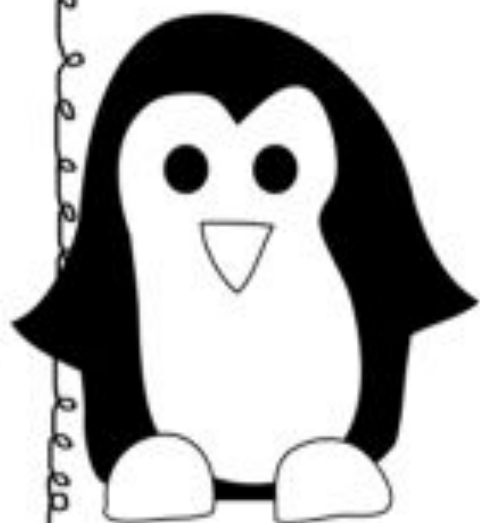

We Are Learning:

Reading: We will begin chapter 4, focusing on the essential question, how are living and nonliving things affected by changing landforms? This will also integrate with our Science unit this month, focusing on observing different types of landforms.

Writing: Students will write about the knowledge they gained about how the Earth's landforms change.

Math: We will begin chapter five, focusing on 2-digit subtraction. Thereafter, we will work our way into learning about time and money.

Social Studies: Students will continue to celebrate Black History Month by learning about influential individuals in American history as well as present day.
